DDA ELIGIBLE VOTER SCENARIOS

Scenario 1: Registered voter who lives and owns property within the DDA boundary .
- Example: Maria owns and lives in a duplex within the DDA boundary. She is an active registered voter at the address of her duplex, which she owns in her name.
- Action: Maria will automatically be mailed a ballot.
- Eligibility: Maria qualifies to vote as both a resident and property owner, but may only vote once.

Scenario 2: Residential renter (lessee) within the DDA boundary who is registered to vote at the same address.
- Example: Charles lives in a duplex that he rents and is registered to vote at the same address.
- Action: Charles will automatically receive a ballot.
- Eligibility: Charles qualifies to vote as a both a resident and a lessee, but may only vote once.

Scenario 3: Residential renter (lessee) within the DDA boundary who is registered to vote at a different address.
- Example: Maria rents the other half of her duplex to Kevin. Kevin lives there but is registered to vote at a different address in Colorado outside the DDA boundary.
- Action: Kevin will not automatically receive a ballot. He must submit a Request for Mail Ballot Form.
- Eligibility: Kevin qualifies to vote as a lessee and may only vote once.

Scenario 4: Commercial lessee within the DDA boundary via an entity.
- Example: Natalie leases a storefront for her business, which is registered as a corporation. The corporation signed the lease. Natalie is registered to vote in Colorado.
- Action: Natalie will not automatically receive a ballot. She must submit a Designation of Elector Form for her corporation, designating herself or another Colorado registered voter.
- Eligibility: Natalie's corporation qualifies to vote as a lessee. One vote is allowed per entity.

Scenario 5: Owner of multiple properties in the DDA boundary via multiple entities, and also a resident.
- Example: Phil owns four commercial properties through four different LLCs. He also lives and is registered to vote at a home within the DDA boundary.
- Action:
  - Phil will automatically receive a ballot as a registered voter/resident.
  - He may also submit four Designation of Elector Forms, one for each LLC, to authorize someone else to vote on behalf of each entity.
- Eligibility: Phil may only vote once for himself. If he votes as a resident, others must be designated to vote for the LLCs. Each LLC must have a different designated voter.

Scenario 6: Individual property owner in the DDA boundary who lives elsewhere.
- Example: Javier owns a house in the DDA boundary in his own name but lives outside the boundary.
- Action: As a registered Colorado voter, Javier will automatically be mailed a ballot to the property's mailing address within the DDA.
- Eligibility: Javier is eligible to vote as a property owner.

Scenario 7: Owner of multiple properties in the DDA boundary via a single entity who lives elsewhere.
- Example: Harry owns several properties in the DDA boundary through a single corporation. He lives outside the DDA boundary.
- Action: Harry must submit one Designation of Elector Form for the corporation.
- Eligibility: Even though there are multiple properties, the entity only gets one vote. Harry may designate himself or another registered Colorado voter to vote on the corporation's behalf.
